
BigHammer.ai
When I sold software, the meetings that went nowhere had one thing in common.
The person who owned the bill wasn’t in the room.

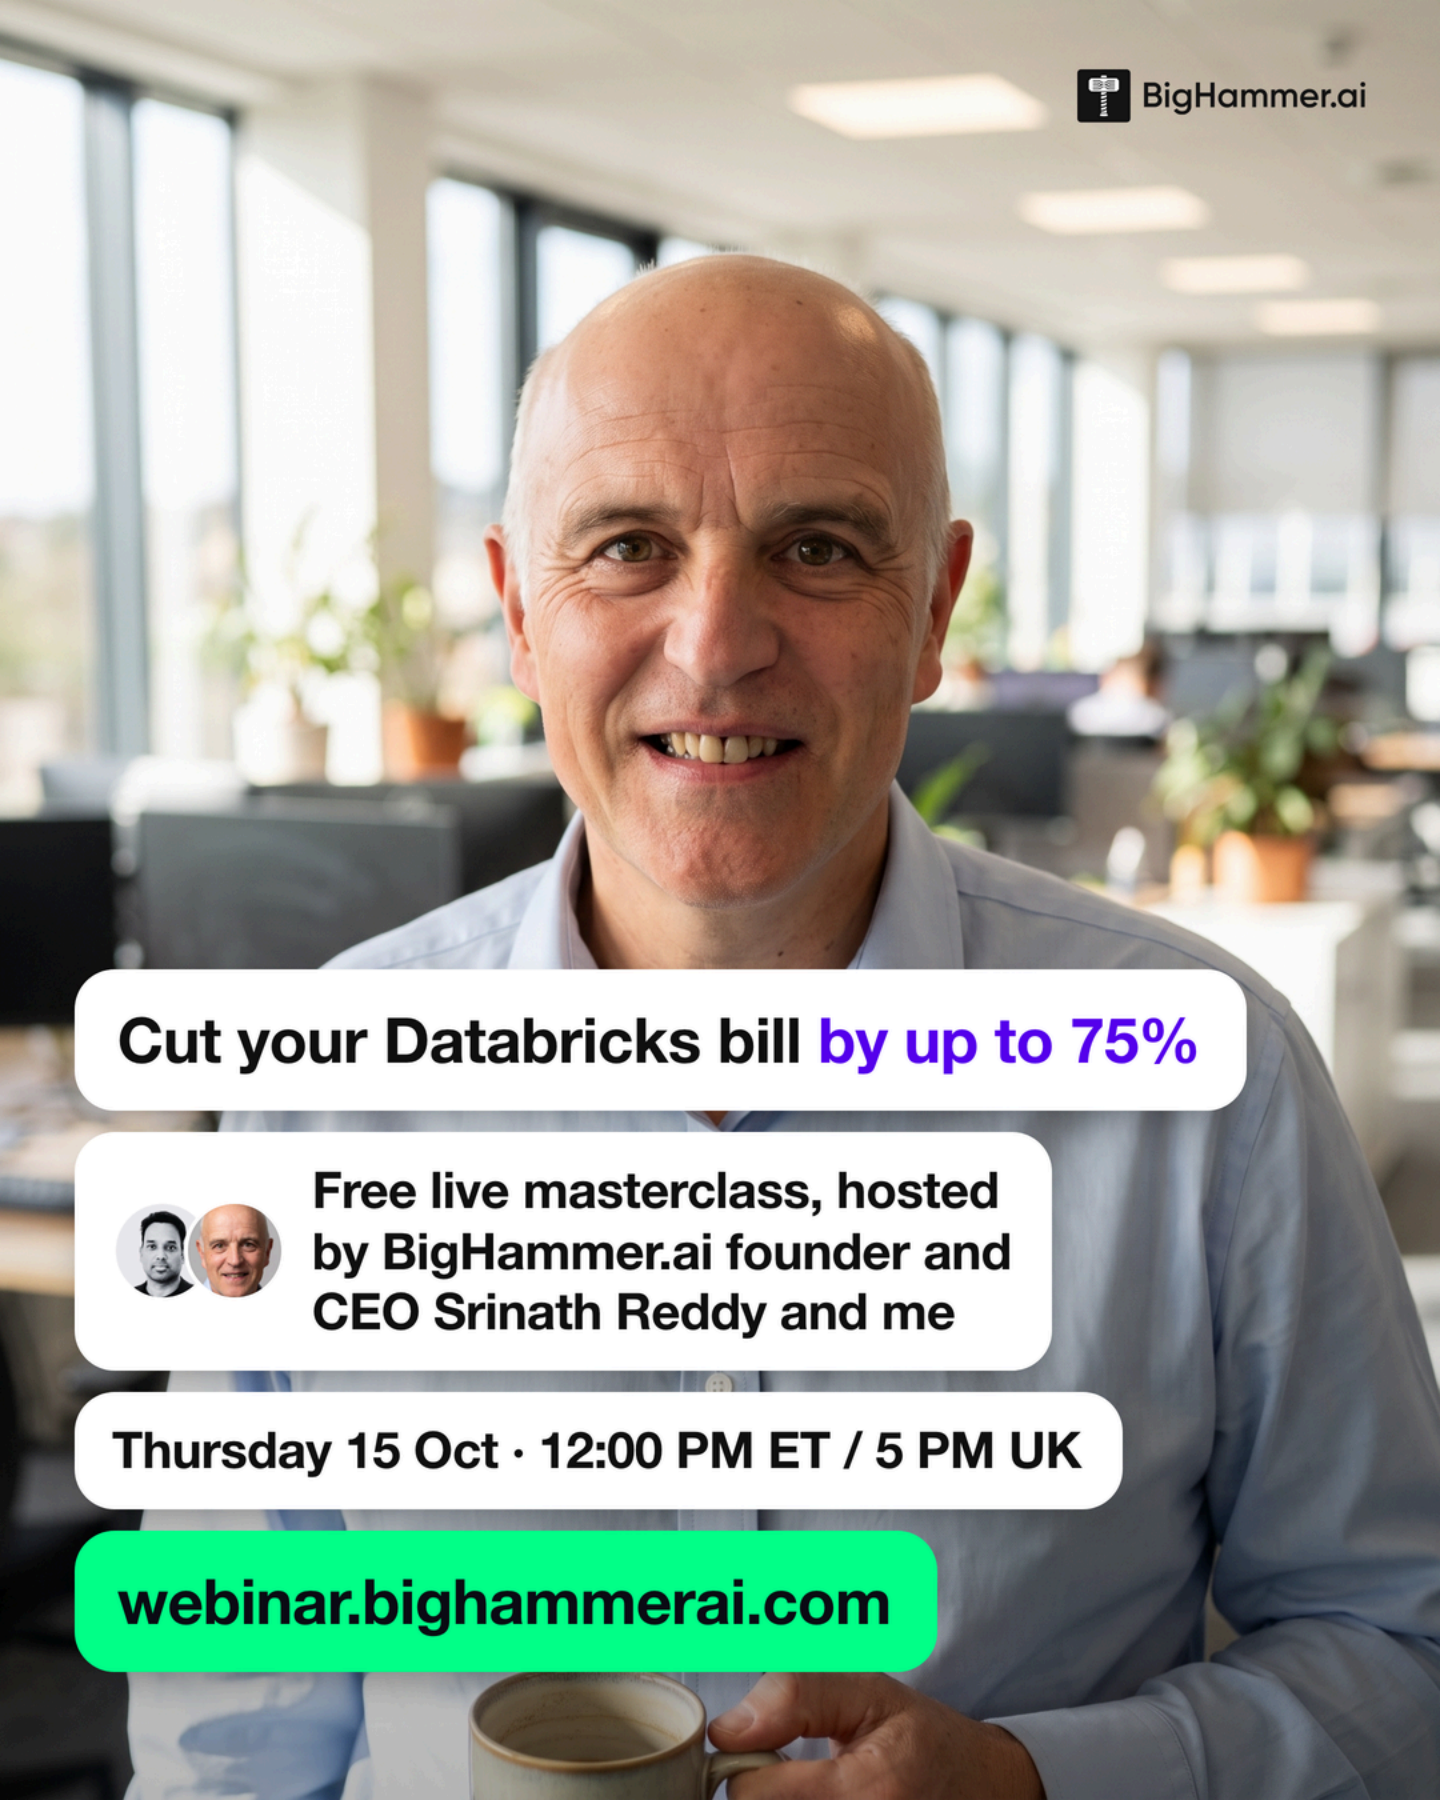

BigHammer.ai
The meeting itself usually went well.
Then three weeks of silence, and an email: “we’ve decided to hold off for now.”

BigHammer.ai
Whoever pays the platform bill has to defend that spend at renewal.
If they never heard the reasoning, they can’t explain it. So they wait.

BigHammer.ai
When the bill owner was in the room, the questions changed.
Less “is this clever?” More “what will I be able to show in a year?”

BigHammer.ai
Doubts came up on the spot, not in an email chain afterwards.
And the decision was made by the person who’d have to stand behind it.

BigHammer.ai
So if you’re joining Srinath and me on Thursday to cut your Databricks costs, bring whoever owns your Databricks bill. They’re the one who has to defend the cut.

BigHammer.ai
Cut your Databricks bill by up to 75%
Free live masterclass, hosted by BigHammer.ai founder and CEO Srinath Reddy and me
Thursday 15 Oct · 12:00 PM ET / 5 PM UK
webinar.bighammerai.com